WE NOMINATE

George Drayton Strayer, one of the Princeton Community's truly remarkable citizens, whose name is frequently heard these days in the hallways and meeting-rooms of the State Capitol as the Hughes Administration and the State Legislature ponder ways and means of meeting the crying needs of tax-supported higher education in New Jersey. Whenever the State University or State-sustained colleges appear on any sort of agenda, Strayer's name surfaces. For at age 85, some two decades after "retirement," he has been the principal architect for the provocative, widely debated report: "The Needs of New Jersey in Higher Education—1962-1970."

In the time of life traditionally associated with the contemplative existence the Pennsylvania-born Strayer, a full-time Princetonian for the past eight years, has remained a strenuous participant in public affairs and has once again taken a long hard look at the years just ahead. The nubbin of his most recent report, issued this past spring and supplementing the Jersey-wide survey he quarterbacked in 1957, is that the State's full-time student population will more than double by 1970 and that this ever-growing pressure on public institutions will require a minimal capital outlay of some $135,000,000.

Among other things Strayer, whose attainment of emeritus rank at Columbia University dates back to 1943, has placed emphasis on the relatively new concept of two-year community colleges serving segments of the adult population together with newly minted secondary school graduates. While pointing out that community colleges will require less costly facilities than those demanded by colleges and universities, Strayer and his associates wisely argue that each community college, wherever it might be located, should have a minimum site of 50 acres and an expansional plant including such campus essentials as a library, auditorium and facilities for physical education.

The supervision of exhaustive studies of public education is hardly a new experience for Strayer, a past president of the National Education Association and the recipient of honorary degrees from a half-dozen institutions. As Director of Columbia's Institute of Educational Research he offered his services to educators everywhere and frequently carried forward projects demanding staffs of upwards of 50 researchers. Forty years ago he was largely responsible for New York State's monumental "Financing of Education," one of the initial studies defining a state's role in maintaining and strengthening educational standards.

Down through the years Strayer, the father of three distinguished university professors, including Princeton historian Joseph R. Strayer and the late beloved Paul J. Strayer, has directed similar state surveys in California, Iowa, Florida, Georgia, Missouri and Washington and has dissected school systems in New York, Chicago, Boston, Baltimore and nearly 60 other major centers. A spokesman for the New Jersey Department of Education has hopefully noted that in California, where his most far-reaching study of higher education was made, "all but one of his recommendations were enacted as that state sought to serve a rapidly mounting population."

For completely and cheerfully disregarding the banalities suggested by advancing years; for insisting that "New Jersey's youth are her most precious asset and that New Jersey will meet the challenge"; for focusing public attention on an educational system in crisis; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee as

MIGRANTS GIVEN BOOKS

And Help, as Well. There were about 100 books in the package that Mrs. Emma Epps took with her to the Cranbury School last weekend.

They came from the Princeton families that stopped in at Male's Book Shop to leave children's books as gifts to the boys and girls who come to New Jersey each summer with fathers and mothers who follow the migrant workers' trail with the crops.

The state runs a six-week school for migrant children in Cranbury each summer, ending this year on Friday, August 24. It is the only school these children know. The books Mrs. Epps took to Cranbury are all the children will have to tide them over until next summer.

"Seeing the faces of those children was the greatest reward anyone could have," Mrs. Epps said.

Books are passed from child to child, and often to parents, as well. Sometimes a child will read to a parent who does not know how, and sometimes a parent will take a child's book himself and try to rub off the rustiness of years spent without the printed word.

Books left in "Emma's Carton" were good ones, in content and in quality, according to Mrs. Raymond F. Male, proprietor of the shop. They were not chewed and worn — although they will quickly become so with use — and they were not cheap, sensational trash.

BOOKS FOR MIGRANT CHILDREN: An appeal for good, once-read children's books to be given to word-starved migrant children brought in about 100 volumes to Male's Book Shop in a period of three days. The books — and some were for adults, too—were taken to the migrant camps around Cranbury and to the Cranbury School for migrant children. Mrs. Raymond F. Male shows "Emma's Carton," which held the books until Mrs. Emma Epps could take them to the children. (Staff Photo)

Much is Needed. It is in her capacity as chairman of the Migrant Committee of the Federation of Colored Women's Clubs that Mrs. Epps makes her visits to the migrant camps and to the schools in Woodston, Fairton and Cranbury.

She has taken not only books, but clothing, shoes and even food to families and children in need. Eleven women throughout the state work with Mrs. Epps on her committee, gathering the clothing and shoes and obtaining contributions of money. It is an all-year job, and Mrs. Epps is beginning now to lay the plans for migrant work in 1963.

Here in Princeton, she has been assisted by Mrs. Peggy Cole, Mrs. L. R. Dratfield and Mrs. Loren Johnston, all of whom join her in visits to the camps. There have been many Princeton contributors, Mrs. Epps says, including a shoe store whose owner provided expensive orthopedic shoes at less than half-price, and many citizens who have given clothing and money.

There are 460 Negro children from 5 to 12 years of age in the three schools and 344 in the 1 to 3 age group. Preschoolers are cared for in day centers while their mothers—there are 1,080 Negro women migrants — work in the fields picking potatoes, tomatoes and whatever other crops are ripe.

May Hold Meeting. Help from the Federation's Migrant Committee is not limited to material contributions. If a family decides to make the break and stay north, the committee will do what it can to help. This summer, Mrs. Epps and her helpers found a Route One house for a family whose father had been given a permanent job. Housing for these Negro families is particularly difficult to find.

Contributions of books, clothing and shoes are still needed, Mrs. Epps says. Frustrated by the apathy of many New Jersey residents in the face of the migrant problem, Mrs. Epps hopes to hold a public meeting in Princeton this fall to tell residents of the community how close and urgent the problem is, and to seek support for the 11 migrant bills now before the legislature. Whether or not the meeting is held depends on the availability of Senator Harrison Williams as a speaker, Mrs. Epps says.

WATER STORY: IMPROVED

By New Pump, More Rain. Purchase of a new pump with the capacity to deliver more than 3 million gallons a day is expected to make life more normal for the Princeton Water Co. and its consumers in future hot, dry spells. In process of installation at the Stony Brook pumping station, the new piece of equipment is scheduled to go into operation some time next month.

It could happen at a highly opportune time, too, for Walter B. Jefferson, secretary-treasurer of the Water Co., points out that September can be a very dry month. It is with such a possibility in view that Mr. Jefferson reported this week that the current sprinkling schedule remains in effect — despite the heavy rains of early August.

Just as the drought that had been in effect throughout virtually all of July seemed ready to spread its searing talons over the earth once more, August produced the kind of steady, soaking rain that turns much from brown to its natural green again. Last Thursday and Friday brought in excess of an inch and a half of rain each day, and by now, measured precipitation is almost as great as the 3.53 inches which fell during the entire month of July.

Best indication of the degree to which the drought struck this area comes from comparative figures for the Julys of the past four years. This is the table:

	Rainfall
July '59	5.05 inches
'60	9.81
'62	3.53

The 10.72 inches that fell last year is the highest for any July in Water Co. records. The figure this year — one of the lowest — had been preceded by an unusually dry spring.

Praise for the Public. Mr. Jefferson comments that the public's demand for water this summer has been "modest" and its cooperation "great." He substantiates this with figures which show only 1.8 million gallons pumped on Sunday and 1.9 on Saturday — in contrast to a normal daily summertime figure of 2.6 mil-lian. Incidentally, there is no ban on car washing, as some residents think, and gardens may be watered apart from the sprinkling schedule.

In effect until further notice, that limits sprinkling to Mondays and Thursdays for odd-numbered homes; Tuesday and Fridays for even-numbered homes, and those with no numbers to Wednesdays and Sundays. Schools, churches and other institutions should telephone the Water Co. to receive assigned times.

ROUND-UP

A four-lane by-pass around the village of Lawrenceville? The Lawrence Township Planning Board has held one meeting with residents of the area to consider it, and a second, larger session is scheduled for next month.

The thought behind creation of such a by-pass would be to preserve the picturesque portion of Route 206 which goes through the heart of Lawrenceville if the State proceeds with long-range plans to expand the highway into four-lanes . . . many large trees, historic buildings and other structures are too close to the right of way to be saved if 206 is doubled in width . . . the by-pass would run for a distance of about two miles from Carter Road north of Lawrenceville to a point just beyond the village. . . .

Two police cars moved quickly down Nassau Street to Prospect Monday morning to answer an alarm that Elm Club was filled with smoke . . . that was the extent of the trouble — an oil-fired hot water heater in the basement was the source, and police handled the problem without resort to the fire department.

The quietest week of the summer, news-wise, was marked by only minor lawlessness . . . a handbag was taken from a car parked near Baker Rink, with the owner, Miss Ethel Hawthorne, 321 Walnut Lane, reporting something over $5 missing from her wallet when the latter was found . . . vandals with malicious mischief on their minds were by no means inactive, painting over the faces of some 150 parking meters (picture, page 12).

New Jersey traffic fatalities are up by 12 percent over last year and, for the first two weeks of August, are 50 percent higher than they were during the same period in 1961 . . . to date, 526 people have lost their lives on the highways since January 1 . . . the August total is 39, compared to 26 a year ago.

Attorney General Arthur J. Sills has ordered an increase in patrolling by state motor vehicle inspectors, and has asked municipalities to step up law enforcement against the careless and the reckless behind the wheel.

Last week's heavy rains were accompanied by record low temperatures here and at numerous other weather-checking stations in the east . . . after touring upwards to 89 on August 6, and hovering 85 for three straight days to the accompaniment of high humidity, the thermometer rode a toboggan downward . . . in outlying areas, the Stony-Brook Millstone Watershed Association reports, lows of 52 were recorded last Friday and Saturday, and on Friday it never got above 59.

Person To Person

Cary S. Rammler

The other day, our Navy friend set us to thinking about how many individual pieces and parts must go into our present-day devices, when he told us that in a modern submarine, which costs upwards of $50,000,000, there are no fewer than 7 million items used in construction. That's a lot of parts to assemble for any one job even if they do make only one at a time. But think of the problem of ordering and collecting all the parts that go into the mechanisms which our factories put together on assembly lines, from millions of incoming parts at one end to thousands of outgoing complicated machines on the other end. In our new automobiles there are some 13,000 individual pieces, which flow off the assembly lines a complete unit at the rate of hundreds per day. That's some job of coordination! and SOME job of making sure it is in perfect condition before we deliver it to you, to say nothing of servicing it properly for you for years to come. That's our job, and we do it faithfully and economically for you. Kammler Buick-Pontiac Co., Route 206, opposite Princeton Airport, WA 1-2222.

THIRSTY? This new pump acquired by the Princeton Water Co. will send water to consumers at the rate of 2100 gallons a minute, or 3 million per day. With the new equipment is pumping station attendant Lester H. Terhune.

School Referendum Set

Borough residents will go to the polls September 25 to register yea or nay to the Board of Education's proposed purchase of land behind the high school.

Included in the referendum is the School Board's proposal to issue bonds for the purchase in the principal amount of $172,000.

The land involved includes 14 acres bounded by Franklin Avenue and the easterly side of Walnut Lane, now owned by the Westminster Choir College, and approximately one and three-tenths acres located on the northerly side of Guyot Avenue, belonging to Richard E. Bradley. The purchase price of the Westminster lot is $140,000.

The Board intends to develop the area, including the high school, into an education center.

OPEN HOUSE AT LIBRARY

Author-Publisher To Talk. Datus C. Smith Jr., director of Franklin Publications, will speak at 7 this Thursday at the Public Library's second open house for young people.

Author of "The Land and the People Of Indonesia," Mr. Smith is known throughout Asia as the "Ambassador of Books." By establishing presses in Lebanon, Iran, Iraq, Pakistan, Malaya and Indonesia, he has enabled people to read American books in the languages they know.

His talk will be illustrated by a display of children's favorite books reproduced in the languages of Asia. Mr. Smith, a Princeton resident, was formerly director of the Princeton University Press. Mrs. Smith will also take part in the program.

Next week, the library will hold an Indonesian Night as part of its Asian Summer program. Mrs. William Bauer is in charge of the Asia Committee, made up of boys and girls, which will act as hosts and hostesses.

Adults are invited to the open houses, if accompanied by a child. No admission is charged.

BIKE RIDERS FLAGGED

1896 Law Revised. The Mayor and Council are weighing a "bike riders ordinance" which forbids riding on the sidewalks only in the business district.

The ordinance will partially repeal the ruling made in 1896 which forbids riding on any sidewalk. A public hearing will be held at 8 p.m. on September 11 in the Borough Hall.

"This is a safety problem," said Mayor Henry S. Patterson at Tuesday's meeting. "This ordinance has been worked on for at least six months. Magistrate Tams of the Traffic Safety Committee wrote the first draft.

"It is high on the priority list of the Borough PTA . . . it is something that they are very anxious to have approved. I am sorry that there is no one here tonight from the PTA."

Lights Required. In general, the ordinance would ban bicycle (and tricycle) riding on the sidewalks in front of the stores on Nassau Street and on the side streets leading to Nassau.

The ordinance would also require that all bikes be equipped with a white headlight visible from a minimum distance of 500 feet, and a red light at the rear visible from 500 feet. In addition to the red lamp, a red reflector may be mounted on the rear which must be visible from 50 to 300 feet when directly in front of the upper beam of an automobile headlight.

All bicycles must be equipped with a bell or other device capable of being heard 100 feet away. No sirens or whistles will be permitted.

The following sidewalks would be declared off-limits: the north side of Nassau Street from Scott Lane to Bayard Lane; both sides of Chambers and Bank Streets; both sides of Palmer Square, east, west and south; on Witherspoon Street from Nassau to Spring on the east side and to Jackson on the other.

Also, the south sides of Spring and Hulfish, the west side of Vandeventer from Nassau to Spring; and on both sides of Tulane from Nassau to Spring.

Concern was expressed by Councilman Ellwood W. Godfrey as to how the off-limits ruling could be simplified for the bicycle riders, most of whom are school children.

"This is a problem of educating the school children," Mayor Patterson said. "We'll need the assistance of the PTA and the private schools in town."

It was suggested that the PTA might prepare a booklet or maps clarifying the ordinance. Council President William H. Walker commented, "The manner in which bike rules are presented is very important."

The Mayor and Council hope that suggestions will be forthcoming at the public hearing.

CHANGES PLANNED

In Station Parking. The Borough Council plans to put a little order into the parking muddle at the railroad station.

An ordinance was introduced Tuesday authorizing the purchase of a sliver of land from the United New Jersey Railroad and Canal Company. The land extends along the easterly and southerly side of University Place from Alexander Street to College Road.

The Borough's plan to enforce head-in parking will give an additional 20 spaces for cars. About 116 cars will be accommodated. No meters will be installed.

"This will also combat the late commuter and the late theatre-goer who parks in the middle of the street," Mayor Henry S. Patterson said. Such parking, he added, has been a considerable traffic hazard.

Provision will be made in front of the station for commuters' wives to park briefly when meeting trains. The present area used by taxicabs will remain unchanged.

The ordinance will be read at a public hearing at 8 p.m. on September 11 in Borough Hall.

Decaying Houses. An ordinance was also introduced authorizing the demolition of buildings in the Borough deemed unfit for occupancy or use. The standards for demolition would be the New Jersey statutes and the adoption of the New Jersey Housing Code.

Council President William H. Walker stated that the proposed ordinance sets police powers and fines for violation. The code establishes minimum standards for housing in the area of light, heat, electricity, ventilation, sewage, hot and cold running water, structural components, esthetics of building and yard maintenance.

The present housing code, Mr. Walker said, was established in the 1940's and amended in 1959 at the request of the Housing Authority.

"The present code is extremely general on health standards, while the state code is very specific," he added. "This gives the Borough a better weapon to use against residences and housing units neglected by owner and occupants," Mayor Henry N. Patterson said.

A public hearing will be held September 11 at the Borough Hall. "We'll welcome suggestions from the residents. We want to adopt something that is workable from everybody's point of view," said Mayor Patterson.

elm trees and has notified owners of diseased trees to have the trees removed.

"Dead elms spread the disease rapidly," said Council President Walker. "Although we realize that tree removal is expensive, it must be done to avoid contamination of the healthy elms."

Councilman Alan W. Carrick noted that he had three elms cut down on his property. "One elm, two feet thick, cost $65 to cut down and have hauled away."

The Borough has destroyed elms on its own property and plans to spray the remaining trees. As soon as a tree yellows, Mr. Walker said, it should be destroyed.

"I'M ANNOYED"

About Digit Dialing. Taking a number from a group of ruffled citizens on the west coast, a young Princeton resident named Barry Nathan has been calling up troops in a battle against the digit-dialing policies of the telephone company.

"It's a question of annoyance," states Mr. Nathan. "The consumer has no choice: if he doesn't like all-digit dialing, he can't very well go to the next super-market and buy another brand."

Mr. Nathan hopes, by sheer numbers the shudders at the phrase) to convince the phone company it ought to consider alternatives to digit-dialing. So far, he has found a few allies, but he hopes to find more when Princeton fills up after Labor Day.

"The problem spots on the dial are 5, 7 and 9 which have no vowels," Mr. Nathan points out. "But if the phone company used the first letters of compound words, this problem could be solved. For example, 'White Plains' as an exchange would mean dialing 'WP', or 9-7."

"This, you see, is part of my argument: I just don't believe that the company has considered alternatives."

A verbal man, Mr. Nathan thinks that most people find it hard to remember numbers, because words have more associative values.

"In a phone booth, where you're cramped for space anyway, you can't possibly write down a string of numbers, and if you've called 'Information', you certainly cannot remember nine digits you never heard before until you can get to a pad and pencil."

West Coast subscribers, wrathful over all-digit dialing, have begun harrassment tactics against the phone company, like overpaying bills by a few cents, but Mr. Nathan does not plan to organize anything like this.

"I like to think up projects that keep people on their toes," Mr. Nathan smiles, "and I think this is just such a project for the phone company."

Incidentally, Mr. Nathan is now in the process of moving from one house to another and at the moment, he is his own best subject: he has no telephone.

DRIVERS COLLIDE

Car Overturns on Route 1. Howard L. Thompson, 29, Lincoln Highway, caused a spectacular accident on Route 1 Saturday night when he ran into the rear of a car operated by John W. Traegler, 69, Alexander Road, Princeton Junction. The crash occurred in West Windsor Township near the new Palmer Motor Lodge.

Traveling at a high rate of speed, State Police reported, Mr. Thompson tried to pass Mr. Traegler and another car on the right shoulder of the road. He failed, hitting the Traegler car and causing it to roll over twice before coming to rest upside down on a grass shoulder. Mr. Thompsoo's car finally stopped atop the highway's concrete medial strip.

Neither driver was seriously hurt, although Mr. Traegler was treated at Princeton Hospital for two bruised ankles and released. State Police issued Mr. Thompson a summoos for careless driving.

Car Rams House. About four hours later, early Sunday morning, Charles A. Gillette, 54, 272 Witherspoon Street, ran into the front porch of a house at 131½ Lytle Street. Unhurt, except for a scratch on the knee, he was examined by the police physician Dr. Howard Unangst, and pronounced inebriated.

Mr. Gillette first hit a tree before bouncing across the street and into the southwest corner of the house. The house is owned by Mrs. Lucille McKinney.

For the second time in three summers, Princetonians could write to friends elsewhere, "Having a wonderful time and we're sleeping under blankets."

The good fortune will continue, the Man reported. Day-time temperature figures may make it into the 80's, but welcome readings in the low 60's — or even less — will continue when night falls. Low humidity, too. Thanks, its says here, to that family known as the Canadian Highs.

TWO FINED

In Borough Court. Mrs. Martha Thomas, 47, 9 Brookside Avenue, Pennington, and Thomas Maurer, 17, 31 Wheatsheaf Lane, were fined $12 and $15 respectively in traffic court Monday by Magistrate Theodore T. Tams, Jr.

Mrs. Thomas was charged with failing to yield the right of way at a "stop" sign. She pleaded not guilty. Mr. Maurer pleaded guilty to driving without glasses as required by his license.

COMEDY TO OPEN

At Bucks Playhouse. "Crazy Old Owl," a comedy about a gifted schoolboy, will open Monday at the Bucks County Playhouse, New Hope, with Dennis King in the role of a man who befriends the gifted youngster.

John Rodell, author of "Crazy Old Owl," has written about the modern school system, treating with humor the problem of "forced student conformity," according to Bucks spokesmen.

Mr. King has appeared in recent seasons as Captain Edward Fairfax in "Billy Budd," General Burgoyne in "The Devil's Disciple," Jason in "Medea" and Henry Higgins in "Pygmalion."

Producer Michael Ellis has chosen John Messenger, age seven, to play the role of the schoolboy. John played Winthrop in the national company of "The Music Man" and was also in the movie, "Two for the Seesaw."

"A Penny for a Song"—will run at the Playhouse through this Saturday with a cast of Association of Producing Artists players.

Puppets Coming. The Ronnt Marionettes in "Rumpelstiltskin" will occupy the Playhouse next Tuesday for two shows, one at 11 a.m. and one at 2. Reserved seats may be obtained by calling the box-office at 215-862-2041. Adult admission is $1.50, children's 75c.

Built to one-third life size, the Ronor marionettes have been designed, hand-carved and dressed to reflect the traditions of old-world puppetry.

WREN AND SCRIPT: Robert Wren, who impressed Princeton audiences with his acting ability in Brecht's "The Exception and the Rule," has turned director for the final — and current — Princeton Players' production, John Gay's "The Beggar's Opera."

IT'S "GUYS & DOLLS"

At Music Circus. Only one more production remains on the summer schedule at the Lambertville Music Circus after the current "Guys and Dolls" packs up scenery and costumes this Sunday night.

The final offering, to run from August 21 through September 2, will be "Bye, Bye Birdie." Performances at the Music Circus are given Tuesdays through Fridays at 8:30, Saturdays at 6 and 9:30 p.m. and Sundays at 7:30 p.m.

Two more Monday night jazz concerts will be given this season, one next Monday featuring Duke Ellington and the final one on Monday, August 27, with Julian "Cannonball" Adderley and Nancy Wilson. These Monday night sessions are held from 8:30.

The final Sunday afternoon special will be George Shearing on September 2 at 2 p.m.

PLAYHOUSE

Adventures of a Young Man (Aug. 15-21) is derived from splicing together various magazine stories written by Ernest Hemingway about a young man called Nick Adams. Some of the stories are reputed to be based on Hemingway's life.

The story starts in the upper peninsula of Michigan and Wisconsin, establishing the unhappy domestic background of Nick Adams, portrayed by Richard Beymer. After being angrily leaves home, Adams runs into one misadventure after another. He meets a string of characters, among them a punch-drunk, berserk prize fighter, startlingly portrayed by Paul Newman. The rest of the cast is equally good: Cerinne Calvet, Dan Dailey, Jessica Tandy and Juano Hernandez. Comment: Hemingway saga.

THE GARDEN

Lolita (Aug. 8-21) Novelist Vladimir Nabokov wrote the screen adaption of his best seller "Lolita," but his play is merely a shadow of the book. Lolita, the willing 12-year-old corrupted by a middle-aged European, is played by Sue Lyon; James Mason is the seducer.

Shelley Winters portrays Lolita's widowed mother who marries Mason and later con-

News Of The Theatres

Yesterday dies. Peter Sellers as Clare Quilty provides a little life to the movie. Comment: two and one-half hours can be a long, long time.

THE PRINCE

Birdman of Alcatraz (now playing) The usual prison film concentrates on riots and "breaks", this one centers on the psychological aspects of prison life

Burt Lancaster gives a competent performance as Robert Stroud, who, in real life, has spent 53 years behind bars, 43 of them in solitary. The film implicitly pleads for the release of Stroud, now 72 years old, on the grounds that he had been rehabilitated and paid his debt to society for the two murders he has committed.

The action centers on his sharp personal conflict with Karl Malden, as a warden who feuds with him not only over keeping birds in his cell, but over the U.S. penal system. Then there's Thelma Ritter, as Stroud's mother, who first fights for her son's freedom and later deserts him. The scenes involving Stroud and his birds are utterly fascinating. Comment: Off-beat prison film.

IT'S NEW To Us

BACK TO THE BARN

September Roundup. It's going to be a western fall. All the signs are pointing west and the new fall fashions would take first place in any rodeo.

Cotton suede leads the parade into the ring, and Red Barn Casuals, Route 206, has a supple brown skirt in this unusual fabric. It's a fan skirt made with stitched gores that give it a collapsible frame — you know the style from various summer-weight skirts that have been around. The fabric is soft and napped and the brown is rich and lit with highlights.

With it, you might wear a paisley cotton overblouse (or tuck it in) with a splash of rusts, browns and creams to enhance its simple cut. Red Barn matches it with a little necklace of amber beads. (Enough colored beads here to buy back Manhattan, by the way: some amber or cranberry glass, others balls of red wood, still others like strings of little boys' marbles, all in long, versatile strands.)

Cotton suede makes a pleasant change from corduroy, but that good old favorite is still here, done up this time in a grey-green jumper with round neck and deeper green belt. Under it, Red Barn wears a calico print collarless shirt with the same green for a background, and a cowboy kerchief tied, bow in front, just like the top hand.

Another corduroy venture is the sand suit with lapel jacket, round-cornered hem and shiny brass buttons. The matching blouse is creamy "linen" with stand-up collar and three-quarter cuffed sleeves.

A taupe poplin suit shrugs off the buttons on its jacket and instead uses for decoration a print facing like the blouse inside. Deep green, olive and rose make the print.

For younger customers, Red Barn brings out a deep olive cotton suit with a narrow band of red leather streaking across the patch pockets, red buttons and a short-sleeved white pique blouse with wide tommy collar turned over the jacket.

Slacks have a western look, with leather piping slanting down the pocket in the same charcoal shade as the pants. A denim in nylon and cotton makes a softer slack than the usual blue-jean.

With any of these, wear a provincial bird print blouse with three-quarter cuffed sleeves (big this fall), front buttons and one of those cowboy scarves at the neckline. This scarf buttons to the back of the blouse so that you can tie it in front or take it off altogether.

A Long Sweater Story

To make a long story short — or rather, to make a short story long, there's this sweater dress at The Red Barn that beats anything you ever saw knit.

"Sweater dress" does not mean a demure shirtwaist with a sweater on top of it. Sweater dress, as translated by Red Barn, means just that: a sweater made into a dress.

It is a dress-length classic cardigan that comes about to the knee or so, just like any dress. It has a ribboned button closing from neckline to hem, full-fashioned long sleeves with rib cuff and a Villager label. The color is a pleasing cranberry red.

Only trouble is . . . you'd have to weigh about 80 pounds to wear it.

Back from the ranch, you'll wear Red Barn's deep royal blue wool with its fringed waist tie and its innocent neckline just waiting for a cowboy-style scarf — maybe one of those Echoes on the table.

Wide-wale corduroy in steel blue makes a shift with buttons all the way down and an optional sash. An A-shape jumper comes in lodeo green with patch pocket, boat neck and a sash you can take or leave alone.

AND AT THE NEXT RANCH

You Make Your Own. The west stretches all the way to Bamberger's this autumn, along the way by bolts of cotton suede cloth to use for skirts, jumpers, jackets, slacks.

In the Bamberger's fabric department on the second floor, you'll find this washable fabric in a deep, rich palette of autumn shades like rust, dark olive, avocado, earth brown, red and deep royal blue. $1.69 a yard.

These fall colors appear again in cotton homespun ($1.98) where the cranberry red, the mustard, the sunkist orange, the tobacco brown all coordinate with prints that use the same colors. We like the color called "mushroom" — a deep sort of brown-grey-taupe. Prints are modern or medallion-style, fabric is an abundant 42 inches.

The look of raw silk has been achieved in the blending of rayon and silk that makes hopsacking in bronze green, a very deep turquoise green, brown, royal purple, blue, navy and black, for $1.89 a yard.

Flat wool knits, the kind you can use to make an unlined skirt that will hang on a hanger, are $3.99 in Bamberger's fabric department. Another special fabric is the champagne jersey, 60 inches wide, with gold thread incorporated into the weave. There is no pattern, merely the overall glint of gold against the pale beige of the wool. This one is $5.99 a yard.

And then, of course, tweeds and basketweave wools, blanket plaids, mad plaids or traditional clan plaids, and in the solids, bolts of Kaplan wool in bronze, pale copper.

For the back-to-nursery-school member, look over the cotton flannels: white snowmen on red, a green checked rabbit on white, grey kittens on pale blue.

Tiring of the thimble, we went down the escalator to the misses sportswear department where we found sets of everything, just like dishes. Good old flannel, in good old grey, has been used for an incredibly large assortment of fall clothes, a bulky cardigan with red and gold crossbars; a demi-fit jacket with widely flaring, box-pleated or straight skirts; gingham blouse in grey and white checks with pan collar or solid light grey Oxford button-down shirt or a ticking shirt with band collar.

The range is almost as wide in a bright red and green plaid collection featuring a short jacket with bright brass buttons down the front, a kilt-length skirt, a straight skirt or a gored skirt, or a jumper with chain belt and a hood lined with red, like Little Red —oh, well, you know.

There are too many prices to list, but the grey jacket is $12.98 and the red plaid is $14.98, and you can judge from there.

One of the most unusual skirts in this department is made of Swiss wool and camel hair, a softly napped straight skirt with stitching all around the hem and the slit that serves as a kick pleat. Fully lined, it's $19.98.

Cotton suede comes around again in carcoats made of avocado or spice and lined with orlon pile. Slacks and Bermudas match.

A CLEAN VACATION

Leave Laundry Behind. The pleasures of returning from vacation to a clean linen closet can be yours if you dump all your laundry at The Laundromat Center, 40 Leigh Avenue, on your way out of town for those last two August weeks.

The Center will keep your laundry for as long as 30 days, if luck gives you more vacation than two weeks, and you can stop by on your way home, and pick up a neat, clean, sweet-smelling stack of clothes.

(On this return trip, you can leave with the Center those stiff tennis socks, muddy dungarees and exhausted sports shirts you wore on vacation.)

You get nine pounds of laundry for 85c, washed and dried. Bedspreads and bathmats same price, blankets from $1 up. Nice way to get a head start on fall house-cleaning.

For stay-at-homes, the Center will iron drip-dry dresses that still need the touch of the iron to look just right, and you can have your dress in a matter of hours, fresh as the day it came off the rack.

Men's shirts, always a Center specialty, are 35c each, ironed as smooth as the man who wears them.

IF YOU LIKE Town Topics, the best way to express your appreciation is to mention it to our advertisers.

Question of the Week

Question: Do you think women who have taken thalidomide should be permitted to have an abortion, if they desire one?

Where asked: Princeton Shopping Center.

Mrs. Robert Noack, Zion Hopewell Township, housewife: I think they should. Everybody wants a normal baby and this is not an act of God; it is an act of man. In this case they know about the possibility of deformity beforehand; if they can do something about it, they should. The children would be a burden to everybody — their parents, their community and themselves.

Thomas Hammer, 67 Locust Lane, management consultant: Yes, I do. Obviously for humanitarian reasons. I don't feel it is necessary to bring a baby into the world that wouldn't have a chance in life. But of course it should be done in a lawful way. That's the problem. I think, in general, abortion should be legalized in specific cases.

Mrs. Thomas Donlon, Cold Soil Road, nurse: No, I honestly think abortion is wrong and so I could not condone the use of it even in such extremity as the thalidomide problem poses.

Mrs. David Kay, 407-B Devereuv Street, teacher: If a person who has taken the drug will suffer from extreme emotional problems because of the threat of her baby being born with a severe handicap, then I feel she should be allowed to have an abortion. The laws of Sweden seem more realistic to me than our own.

Mrs. Walter Bell, 85 Clearview Avenue, housewife: No. For one thing, I don't think, once a child is conceived, anyone should be allowed to take away that life. This is something that affects the whole family, not only the parents but the children as well. I think it is a very serious matter.

Gary Lott, Cranbury, teacher: I feel if tests reveal that the baby will be deformed — they can do this in the later stages of pregnancy — then I think it would be perfectly permissible to perform an abortion, depending, of course, on the person's religion. Unfortunately, they can't tell in the early stages of pregnancy if the baby will be deformed or not.

Miss Penny Peabody, 289 Jefferson Road, teacher: No, because I think this would more or less lead to the liberalization of abortion and I don't think this should be done. And although a number of women who have taken thalidomide have given birth to deformed babies, there is no certainty that all such babies will be deformed. Mrs. Finkbine is going ahead with an abortion before she even knows if her baby will be deformed. I think she is making a mistake.

Charles Teall, 15 Greenview Avenue, engineer: Yes, if it causes all those terrible, deformed children, I certainly think it's better. These women had the misfortune to take thalidomide before they knew of the consequences.

Mrs. Warren Koch, Skillman, housewife: Yes, I think so. That is each person's particular and painful decision to make and I don't think the law should forbid it if they have taken the pain to make up their minds to do it. It is a very difficult decision to make.

Chauncy T. Horton, 63 Lovers Lane, advertising employee: No, for religious reasons I feel abortion is murder. In my opinion, they should not have taken the drug in the first place.

Mrs. John Valdes, 566 Kingston Road, housewife: Yes, I do. Some of the children that have been born have been so terribly deformed they have a right to have an abortion even though in many cases the children have been normal. In fact, I think the percentage is higher in favor of the child being born normal, but there still is that chance.

Mrs. Michael Sweeney, Burning Tree Lane, Lawrenceville, housewife: Yes, I definitely feel that under certain circumstances life should be aborted. Life is difficult enough for a normal child. I think it is very unfair. I think if an abortion is done right away I don't feel there is any life involved from a biological standpoint. Possibly there is from a spiritual point of view which causes some people to object for religious reasons. In my training as a teacher I've worked with handicapped children and it is pretty rough, not only for the children but for the parents as well. I think it is terrible to bring a child into the world without arms or legs. I think it is a disgrace that woman had to go all the way to Sweden for an abortion.

Joseph LeBlanc, Belle Mead, electronics engineer: I feel people should have a little more freedom of choice to have an abortion if they want one and less publicity about it. Seems to me they blow up too much cases like that of Mrs. Finkbine's. If a family has decided upon it, I see no reason why, in this case, they couldn't have an abortion. I just came back from Europe and they permit abortion over there very freely. They also keep it to themselves.

Mrs. William E. Lawrence, 160 Loomis Court, head of high school section of Institutional Testing Department, ETS: Yes, I think to give birth to a child handicapped like that is a frightful thing and it isn't necessary.

Mrs. Willard J. Wright, Duteh Neck, housewife: I think that is up to their own conscience but if a woman feels within her own heart that it should be done, then that is her business and it should be. It hurts a mother to see a child so deformed. It hurts me to see another child deformed. I feel she's not doing it for herself but for her unborn child, knowing that it would be

ROLLICKING ROMP

With "Beggars' Opera." A lively and hilarious evening was the reward for the audience at Tuesday night's dress rehearsal (open to the public at 50c) of John Gay's "The Beggars' Opera." The final production of the season for the Princeton Players is packed with laughs, and the only regret is that audiences later this week will miss the chuckles over dress rehearsal problems.

There are plenty of outrageously comic situations to fill an evening without a recalcitrant door, missed musical cues and overdone makeup—and almost everyone in the cast takes advantage of them. Robert Wrenn's direction is fast-paced, and will probably be smooth as silk by the time weekend tickets are bought.

Ruined Ladies? Eric Berne, as the swaggering Captain Macheath, treats his major and minor harems beautifully, and manages the musical part of his role very well, too. His pained expression, when faced down by Lucky Lockit and Polly Peachum, is a classic; and it is also easy to imagine him robbing coaches right and left.

Lousia Stein, as Polly, handles her role more successfully than Esther Usiskin (Lucy) but perhaps she knows all along she will get her man. Miss Stein is completely knowledgeable in the contrived gesture, the exaggerated stance and the wide-eyed look, and handles her solos and duets capably.

Miss Usiskin runs about a good deal, but fails to convey the comedy of rejected love with assurance. The other ladies (Barbi Alden, Barbara Yam, Sayre Hamilton and Ellie Hamilton) do very nicely, with top honors going to Ellie Hamilton, the perfect Jenny Diver.

Minerva Davenport guzzles gin in England this week, in place of tea in Russia, and gives the Players an excellent Diana Trapes.

Gentlemen, All. A weak tavern quartet (Peter Parasheles, David Ecknorth, Chris Cupas and Frank Simons) fail to do justice to Gay's rollicking music, and are wooden in their roles as nonchalant thieves. Paul Glicker (alias Walt Dreary) drives Gay's point home concerning the conflict of rich and poor with the proper satirical exaggeration.

George Nestor, as Peachum, has found the perfect role for his talents, and his ability to deliver the most comic lines with a straight face is enviable. His voice is strong and true, and his contribution in the vocal department is substantial.

His wife, played by Virginia de Angelis, is properly stricken by the immorality of marrying—whether for money or advancement. Her fainting scene is well done, and in spite of too much makeup, and an overly simpering voice, Miss de Angelis brings off the role well.

Ed Kettenburg, who plays Lockit, has a somewhat strained and husky voice which surprisingly is able to handle the singing burdens neatly. Filch, taken by Fred Bodine, is a minor comic masterpiece.

The musical accompaniment, directed by Charles Sokler and conducted by Warren Rue, is forceful yet restrained, and the overtures, played by the full five pieces, come out very well. William Wolfe has created a bright set, which Fred Lindauer occasionally lights too brightly.

"The Beggar's Opera" will be presented evenings through Saturday and at a matinee Saturday afternoon. It is not recommended for children on a rainy afternoon, but all who are ready for lively entertainment on a summer's day should go.

EXHIBITION PLANNED

By Drill Teams. Precision drilling and marching tactics will be demonstrated Saturday at 5:30 on the parking lot of the YM-YWCA at Avalon Place.

The exhibition will be staged by the Imperial Debs, Princeton's all-girl precision drill team ranging in age from 11 to 17, and the Trenton Cavaliers. Princeton's 36-member group, formed less than two years ago, won two trophies in competition this summer at Red Bank. Lawson McElroy is instructor.

The Cavaliers have been named national champions six times while representing the Pride of Trenton Elks Lodge 1118, IBPOE of W. This boys' team, ages 11 to 17, will go on August 27 to Detroit for competitive drilling during the Elks Grand Lodge convention parade. Robert W. Bingham is drill instructor.

Saturday's exhibition is open to the public. The two participating groups are asking a 25-cent donation from each child and 50 cents from each adult attending to augment their travel and uniform funds.

69TH PLUNGES IN

For 15th Reunion. "The Fighting 69th" will descend on Princeton this Friday, Saturday and Sunday for the regiment's 15th annual reunion.

The event, to be held at the Nassau Inn, will start Friday afternoon with a pool-side gathering followed by a beer party at 9 p.m. in the Palmer Room with community singing, "69th" pictures and free beer.

On Saturday, following a morning of business meetings, there will be a tour of the Forrestal Research Center (1:45 p.m.) followed by a tour of the University campus at 3:15. The day will end with a cocktail reception, banquet and dance. Sunday has been set aside for leisure and lunch.

BACK TO OLD NASSAU

ETS Moves. 20 Nassau, for many years the address of Educational Testing Service, has become so again, in part. The Cooperative Test Division of ETS has moved back to 20 Nassau "temporarily," or until there is more working space on the Rosedale Road campus of ETS than there is at the moment.

Thirty-two members of the CTD division will occupy offices on the fifth floor and part of the fourth floor of the building. The Cooperative Test Division of ETS publishes tests for schools and colleges to use in their own testing programs.

Playgrounds Compete. Two-wheeler experts took home blue ribbons after the Interplayground bike championships held at the High School Playground.

In the 11-and-Under category, Dick Embley came in first, and in the 12-and-over division, Elliot Starks received the nod in the race for regular bikes, and Charles Goeke the first prize for racing bikes. Elliot and Charles represented Harrison Park.

A South American senorita named Carol Kuser shared first place honors with an American Indian named Steven Flotiny in the dress-up contest held in Marquand Park. Bike speed races at Marquand paid off again for Steven Flotiny when he came in first. Olivia Kuser was first for the girls.

Timmy Kearns of the High School won the younger boys' ping-pong event and Tony Procaccini won for the older boys. Vinnie Boccanfuso won the chess event. Pamela Draper the dress-up show.

It's Up To The Voters

Lawrence Township voters will decide in November whether the Township should permit apartment buildings in A-2 and B residence zones.

Township Committee has placed the question on the November ballot. Commenting on the decision to hold a referendum, Arthur H. Wenczel, Republican candidate for Township Committee, said:

"Our residential neighborhoods must be protected against the congestion which these high-density housing projects entail. The Democratic administration has consistently refused to amend our ordinances to provide such protection."

Mr. Wenczel cited a recent effort to restrict apartment construction and pointed out that Mayor C. E. Connell had voted against the measure.

Harrison Park's junior basketball team beat Valley Road 26-21 with Joe Sweeney setting a new scoring record of 21 points. The first varsity basketball game held on the new Grover Park court saw Harrison beat Grover 68-52, with Harrison's star, Colin Leitch breaking his own scoring record to rack up 52 points.

Inter-playground softball league Second-Half championships will be decided this week. It's either Valley Road or High School, with the winner taking on Riverside in playoffs for the full-season title. Last week, High School defeated Valley Road 12-6 and Harrison swamped Riverside 29-14.

Kickball occupies the time at Jugtown, and the kickball team continues undefeated this season, with victories over Riverside 10-7 and Harrison Park, 12-7.

More sedentary children go in for checkers, and Marty Heitner, Terry Weiner and David Van Zandt all won in this game at Roverside. Timmy Kearns of the High School is number one checkers player in the 11-and-Under group, and Tony Procaccini is first in the 12-and-over division.

At Harrison Park, Mike Pilenza came in first in the seniors checkers tournament and Bob Sweeney first in the junior division. Daryle Kline holds first place in checkers for the girls.

Chess winners at Riverside are Marty Heltner, Billy Crawford and Herbie Holran. Bingo, guessing the number of beans in a jar, story-telling, wiffle ball, ping-pong, zelball, chess, checkers and horseshoes are featured at Valley Road at the moment, with a "struggle buggy" parade and races scheduled for the future. Participants will make their own buggies.

Charles Gooke rolled his tire across the finish line first at Harrison Park in the senior tire-race division, with Jack Robertiello taking first prize for the juniors. A foul-shooting contest at Riverside went to Brian Cummings, Billy and David Crawford, Fred Campbell, Carl Giese and Randy Calcoli.

15 TO ATTEND INSTITUTE

Do Brotherhood. Students from a wide area along the Atlantic seaboard, including 15 young people from Princeton, will attend the Brotherhood of Youth Institute at Camp Kittatinny near Newton, New Jersey, during the last week in August.

Princeton's contingent will attend under the auspices of the Council of Community Services' Intergroup Relations Committee under Mrs. W. Frederick Stahlman, chairman.

Those who will attend are Kenneth Guilmartin, Hun School; Perry Benson, Gail Blattenberger, Jaqui Geary, Lynda Geter, Lynn Goldsmith, Alexis Hoagland, Nacky Smith, Richard Vomacka, Raymond Vuglen, Melanie Vural, Russell West, Sharon Craig, Warren Counts and Jay Lockard from Princeton High School.

Inaugurated in 1960 by the National Conference of Christians and Jews, the Brotherhood Institute brings together students from various racial and religious groups who participate in a series of lectures and discussions.

This year's topics are "Equality for All Americans," "America's Political Scene," "Understanding People of Different Religions," "Mass Media," "Propaganda and Censorship" and "Understanding our Parents."

Mrs. Stahlman's committee, charged with selecting the campers and obtaining financial aid, consists of Mrs. James Casserley, Philip Coba, Mrs. Edwin L. Lotz, Mrs. Seymour Montgomery, Tomas Serayadarian and Mrs. Willard Starks.

Expenses for seven of the 15 delegates are covered by contributions from the Valley Road School P.T.A., Trinity Episcopal Church, Witherspoon Presbyterian Church, the Princeton Pastors Association, the Y.W.C.A., the Friendship Club, the Girl Scout Council and Mrs. Bernard Barenholtz.

JUST 149 TO GO: John O'Neill, meter repairman for Princeton Borough, prepares to clean the paint-covered face of one of the 150 which police estimate were similiarly disfigured over the weekend. Vandals used red and black spray paint to cover meters on Witherspoon and John Streets and these parking yards: Mercer Street Extension, University Place, Palmer Square, and Witherspoon. Police believe the meters were painted during Saturday and Sunday nights.

EXCAVATION BEGINS

At Theatre In Petra. A team of American archaeologists headed by Dr. Philip C. Hammond of Princeton Theological Seminary has begun excavations at the Roman theatre in Petra, Jordan. Plans call for completing the work by September 1.

Dr. Awni Daejani, director of antiquities of the Hashemite Kingdom of Jordan, said his department has begun extensive clearing and restoration in advance of the arrival of the American team. The two-year project is aimed at clarifying the history of the theatre, built when Petra was a commercial center in the Roman-occupied Middle East.

FOUR-YEAR OLD DIES

When Hit by Car. Robert W. Naistat, 4 of 15 Canoebrook Lane, Princeton Junction, died last Wednesday after he was struck by a car.

As he pedaled his tricycle into the street in front of his home on Tuesday, State Police said, he was struck by the station wagon of Mrs. Barbara Clement, 35, of 30 Nassau Place, Princeton Junction. Robert's mother, who witnessed the accident, said that a playmate had called him across the street.

He died 24 hours later in Princeton Hospital. State Trooper Thomas Mulvaney said that the case will be presented to the grand jury.

Survivors are the boy's parents, Samuel and Sarah Waxer Naistat, and two brothers, David and Richard. The service was held at the Kimble Funeral Home with the Rabbi Everett Gendler officiating.

CRAIG WAS COUNSELOR

On Student Ship. W. Bradford Craig, director of the Bureau of Student Aid at the University, served as academic counselor and section leader in the special shipboard orientation program conducted aboard the S.S. Groote Beer for 413 African, European and Asian students who arrived in this country Monday for study at American universities.

Students from six universities will live in Princeton for one month before leaving for their various campuses. Among the group on the S.S. Groote Beer were 252 Africans with four-year scholarships to American universities and 161 Europeans and Asians with Fulbright grants.

Mr. Craig was one of a staff of 55 educators and specialists who led forums on American culture and organized discussion sessions on the various sections of the United States where the students will live.

OFF TO NIGERIA

To Head School. Dr. John A. Sly, son of Dr. John F. Sly, 18 Campbelton Circle, is now in Nigeria making advance arrangements for the establishment of a new school which he will serve as principal after it opens in January.

The new school, located in Aiyetoro, will eventually have 880 students in the equivalent of the American seventh grade through sophomore year in college. All students will be given a common base of general education for their first two years and will then be placed in vocational, pre-university or other studies. There will be strong emphasis on guidance to insure that students choose the studies most suited to their abilities.

Dr. Sly has spent the last seven years working in Liberia, Ghana and Nigeria and has been West African regional representative for the World Veterans Federation since 1959.

RESEARCHERS NAMED

By University. The first six appointments made under the University's revised policy for professional research were announced this week by Dr. J. Douglas Brown, dean of the Faculty.

Layton, senior research engineers, department of aeronautical engineering; Christos D. Papakyriakopoulos, senior research mathematician; Lincoln G. doomed to a life of living practically in a basket. It is a hard thing to live with—either way

Albert M. Hyslop, 3 Laurel Avenue, Kingston, retired engineer. Sure. I don't think you should have to bring a child into the world if there it a chance it will be born without arms and legs. I don't go along into the world if there is a you shouldn't take it. I also think there should be a much closer supervision on drugs before they are released to the public.

Mrs. Karl W. Angel, 549 Jefferson Road, housewife: Yes. I myself had a perfectly legal, theraputic abortion in New Jersey and I didn't have any problems connected with it. I have had other babies since I feel she should be permitted to have one. Seems to me the statistics that the baby will be deformed of a mother who had German measles, which is why I had one, are less than those in Mrs. Finkbine's case.

A 12,500-MILE SONG

Seminarians Return. Completing an itinerary which included churches, prisons, hospitals and civic clubs, the Princeton Theological Seminary Choir has returned to its home.

The 17th annual summer tour of the choir took the group into 14 states and down into Mexico on a 12,500-mile journey. Although the tour was extensive, it did not cover new ground because the Choir has sung before in Mexico and has already sung in all 50 states and every Canadian province except Newfoundland.

Dr. David H. Jones, professor of music at the Seminary and founder and director of the choir, has led the group in three television appearances and 20 radio broadcasts during the past year.

He and his group appeared this summer in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, Kansas, Colorado, Utah, Nevada, California, Arizona, Texas, Arkansas, Kentucky and West Virginia.

In the years since Dr. Jones founded the Seminary Choir, he has led the singers in more than 3,000 concerts before the congregations of 2,000 churches, the inmates of prisons, hospitals and reform schools and the personnel of military bases.

Overseas tours have taken the Choir to Cuba, Central and South America, Puerto Rico, Haiti and the Dominican Republic, Japan and Korea.

AID FOR HANDICAPPED

Through Goodwill Industries. The newly-formed Goodwill Industries of Delaware Valley plans to offer employment and training to the handicapped of Central New Jersey on or near September 1.

The area Goodwill unit is located on the Donnelly Hospital grounds in Trenton. One of 128 such units throughout the United States, it is an autonomous organization governed by a Board of Trustees from the community.

The goal of the Goodwill Industries is to help the handicapped to help themselves. It does this by collecting, repairing and reconditioning articles donated by the public and selling them in Goodwill retail stores. The profit received from the sale of these articles goes directly to the payment of wages of Goodwill handicapped workers.

In providing the opportunity to renovate and sell materials, Goodwill offers training and employment opportunities to the handicapped in sorting of clothing, steam ironing, and pressing, pricing, inventory control, painting and refurnishing of furniture, appliance and shoe repair, and office and clerical work.

Reviews Reviewed.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The ineptitude of your review of "Lolita," the film prompts me to make clear to you, if I may, the opinion I have long held of your movie reviews. Their mediocrity is not only remarkable, but harmful to the future and the quality of the film situation in this town. They have no place — or do they? — in a paper which pretends to represent a community of some value.

It's time for a change. Here's a vote for your future film critic.

CLAUDIO GUILLEN

Except that they are limited by physical defects or other impairments, the Goodwill employees are the same as any other. They receive a wage in proportion to their productive ability.

The Industry asks the support of the public in donating usable clothing, furniture, appliances, shoes and other household items to the Goodwill program. Though Goodwill does not solicit, a Goodwill truck will be sent to a householder's door upon request. Those who have donations should call JU 7-2100, extension 59.

HOOT MON!

Scottish Fling at Trenton. From 10 in the morning until dark, Scottish events and activities will take place at the 10th annual Scottish-American Games to be held Saturday at Lincoln Field on Klockner Road in Hamilton Township.

An unusual display of tartans this year will add to the color. In addition there will be the usual varied Highland dancing. Highland Fling, Sword Dance, Shean Truibhas, Sailor's Hornpipe and the Irish Jig. There will also be competition for pipers, including the Lovat Pipe Band which has won at the Trenton games the last three years.

There will also be marches, strathspeys and reels and a massed band parade. The oldest married couple will be presented with an award and serenaded by the massed bands. The affair is open to all.

OFFICERS NAMED

To Indian Guide Y Group. Francis F. Schley, 1000 Princeton-Kingston Road, has been named chief, and Manfred Rost, 744 Princeton-Kingston Road, assistant chief, of the Princeton YMCA Indian Guide Longhouse Committee.

Both men have been active in the father and son program of the Indian Guide, according to Eric G. Endersby, president of the Board of Directors. They will serve during 1962-63.

STUDIES TO BEGIN

At University. Research projects on the Negro in America and the role of education in this country and underdeveloped areas will begin this summer at Princeton University.

Princeton's Council on Human Relations, a group of eight faculty members from the social sciences, will sponsor the studies. The council was established last fall with a grant of $400,000 from the Roger Williams Straus Memorial Foundation.

Dr. Charles H. Page, council chairman, said the race relations project will be the first major study in this field since that of Gunnar Myrdal, the Swedish social scientist, in the late 1930's.

The education study will consider the role of the American school in developing attitudes and aspirations. It will also consider the status of education in newly developing nations. Dr. Page said. Findings in both studies will be published over a period of years. If the council's work is deemed successful, it will be placed on a permanent basis by a further grant of $1,000,000 from the Straus Foundation.

Members of the council in addition to Dr. Page, who is chairman of the department of sociology and anthropology, are Harry H. Eckstein, professor of politics; Frederick H. Harbison, director of the Industrial Relations Section; John L. Kennedy, chairman of the Department of Psychology; Arno J. Mayer, associate professor of history; Wilbert E. Moore, professor of sociology; Whitney J. Oates, professor of classics, and Gardner Patterson, director of the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs.

envisioned small groups meeting at the Seminary for short periods. "We need to face some of the hard problems confronting man in contemporary society. While every layman is not expected to be a theologian, he is expected to have a reason for the hope that is in him . . . to understand his faith intelligently.

"Moreover, the layman is a sample of the fact that the Gospel is for the world . . . It is to be loved out in the world, not behind a stained glass window. The layman is a sample of the relevance of the Gospel."

Prior to leaving for Paris and Nigeria, as reported in TOWN TOPICS last week, Dr. McCord said that the director of the seminars had not been selected.

SEMINARS PLANNED

By McCord at Seminary. The Princeton Theological Seminary is planning to conduct a series of minister-layman conferences this year on the ambiguities of practical life.

"Men competent in their own areas, such as law, medicine, business, and banking," said President James I. McCord in announcing the project, "can contribute a great deal to the thinking of the clergy. Laymen give an added dimension."

Dr. McCord cited the seminars at the Borough Zoning Board of Adjustment meeting as one of several compelling reasons why the Seminary needed guest accommodations. The Board granted the Seminary a variance enabling it to purchase and remodel Symington House, 12 Library Place, as a guest house for lecturers and visitors.

Elaborating later on the need for greater exchange of views between ministers and laymen, Dr. McCord said plans

NEW STORE TO OPEN

Under Prep Shop Owner. The Princeton Playhouse on Palmer Square will be flanked by the enterprises of Walter Servis when Mr. Servis, owner of The Prep Shop on the east side of the theatre, opens his new Princess Shop on the west side of the Playhouse in the premises now occupied by the law firm of Smith, Stratton and Wise.

Princess Shop — no "The" in the title — will carry a complete line of clothing for girls in the first grade-through high school size range. Mrs. Walter Servis will be the manager of the new shop.

Mr. and Mrs. Servis have set a tentative opening date of September 15.

There are 2,400 square feet of space in the new quarters, compared to the 2,000 which Mr. Servis now has in The Prep Shop. Messrs. Smith, Stratton and Wise will move to larger offices at 32 Nassau Street.

Mr. Servis opened his Prep Shop, which caters to young men from kindergarten through prep-school sizes, just 11 years ago on September 5, 1951. One year ago he moved to his present store next to the Playhouse from a smaller location on Palmer Square.

LEAFLET AVAILABLE

To Help Small Businesses. The Small Business Administration has issued a leaflet to aid small firms in all fields.

Entitled, "Small Objectives Help Build Profits," it points out that small businesses often consider detailed research and formalizing of business objectives to be unnecessary. It also shows that objectives established several months ago may no longer be valid because of changing conditions. The leaflet advises businessmen to make periodic reviews of business objectives.

In addition, the booklet says that small businessmen have an advantage in determining objectives, but because the small business owner is a major decision-maker, he often carries important matters in his head. The leaflet warns that this can be very dangerous. Copies are available on request from the Small Business Administration, 1015 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia 7, Pa.

Bus Terminal Planned

The Suburban Transit Corp. is negotiating for the purchase of land in Kendall Park about six miles north of Princeton on Route 27 where it intends to construct a bus terminal.

Sidney Kuchin, the firm's general manager, said the site in question is now open land. He said he could not at this time discuss the number of acres involved and other aspects of the transaction because it was "still pending." He did not elaborate.

The firm operates express bus service between Princeton and New York City. It has terminals in New York and New Brunswick. Ticket agencies are located in Princeton, Kendall Park and Franklin Park.

PLAYOFFS UNDER WAY

In Softball League. Semi-final rounds in the Business Softball League were on the schedule this week, following completion of the regular season in which Educational Testing Service again finished first. The defending champions lost only twice in 14 games, adding a forfeit victory over Opinion Research to their record last week.

RCA Laboratories resolved a possible tie for third place with a shutout victory over Industrial Reactor while Gulton Orthilog was losing to Engineering Research, 19 to 8. A fourth-place deadlock did develop, however, Gulton dropping in the standings to a tie for the last playoff berth with Electro-Mechanical Research. Then last week's rain complicated the schedule by forcing a postponement of the game to determine the eventual fourth-place tenant.

Ralph Simon hurled a five-hitter against Industrial Reactor to give RCA an 8-0 victory and set its regular season mark at a highly satisfactory 9-5, including two triumphs over league-leading ETS. Half of the victors' runs crossed the plate on a homer and single by Art Miller, while a timely hit by Bob Nielson also helped. Ed Brown collected two of the losers' five safeties.

Three home runs (Bob Easton, Frank Cadic, Jerry Friedman) were the long blows in Engineering Research Center's 19-8 thumping of Gulton. Bill Fleirband had a four-for-four evening for the victors. Gulton's attack was paced by Fred Guerrini, Frank Pava, Ed Klugman and Tom Curran, the latter with a home run.

Playoff Schedule. The fourth-place tie between Gulton and Electro-Mechanical Research was set for Tuesday of this week, with the victor then due to play Engineering Research Center in the semi-finals. One game only is played in this round, with a best-of-three final to follow next week.

Meanwhile, ETS and RCA were also scheduled to play a semi-final contest Tuesday. The league champion will receive a trophy donated by TOWN TOPICS.

MONDAY is the last day on which classified ads may be changed or cancelled. New classified advertising may be inserted until 5 p.m. Tuesday.

RAINED OUT, WILL TRY AGAIN: Wet weather caused postponement of the annual Old-Timers Baseball Game last week, and the contest has been rescheduled for this Friday at 6:15pm Clarke Field, east of Palmer Stadium. Tom Petrone (left) will manage the younger generation, brother Jack Petrone is in charge of the Ancients.

Sports In Princeton

with the intent of exploring expansion in 13 communities. Peter J. Morgan, head track coach of Princeton University, is chairman of the committee.

Proposed by Freeholder Richard J. Coffee, the project will embrace all aspects of the needs of tennis in the area. A report from the committee has been promised to the Board of Freeholders in six months or less. The next general meeting of the group will be in September.

REVENUE RECORD SET

At Mountain View Course. A total of $16,227.25 was received from players at the Mountain View Golf Course during July, setting an all-time record for a single month, Richard J. Coffee, director of the Mercer County Recreation Department, has announced.

Coffee said the total exceeded July revenues of a year ago by some $5,000. The total income for the first seven months of 1962 has now reached $57,846.05, an increase of $16,721 over the comparable period last year.

Coffee reported that the total number of players for the first seven months of this year has increased by 5,886. He added that the greens and fairways are in the best shape since the course was opened, and recent rains have insured that the good conditions will remain for the rest of the golfing season.

BOWERS RETAINS LEAD

In YMCA Baseball. Bowers defeated Matthews last Tuesday, 10-2, to retain its first place standing in the four-team YMCA Junior Baseball League Standings. Bowers' record is now 9-2.

Runner-up Nassau Oil won its seventh game in 11 starts when it defeated the Water Company, winless in 11 outings, 9-4. Nassau Oil has tied one, Games between Nassau Oil and Bowers, and Matthews versus Water Company were rained out.

WILDCATS ADVANCE

In Summer Basketball. The Wildcats won their second straight game in the YMCA Summer Basketball League Wednesday evening to move into second place in the standings with a 3-2 record. The Bronco fell before the Wildcats, 55-39.

Richard Knowles' steady playmaking and accurate shooting was instrumental in the Wildcat win. Knowles tallied 20 points to capture scoring honors for both teams.

In the second game, Ray Tamasi scored 16 points aod Pete Wise added 11 more to pace the league-leading Bombers to their fifth consecutive win, a 51-42 verdict over the Jets. High scorer for the league io five games is Ted Meredith of the Bronco with a 16.2 average.

The standings:

	W	L	Pct.
Bombers	5	0	1.000
Wildcats	3	2	.600
Broncs	1	4	.200
Jets	1	4	.200

IVY INN WINS, LOSES

In State Softball Tourney. A closely-fought 2-1 defeat at the hands of Kearney Sunday afternoon eliminated Ivy Inn of the Trenton Fast-Pitch Softball League from further competition in the New Jersey AA Softball Tournament held at Linden's Warnico Park.

The day before, the Inn had defeated Metuchen, 4-1, to advance to the second round. Ivy pitcher Dick Cooper gave up only three hits for the win.

The game with Kearney was a thriller. Scoreless and hitless through the first seven innings, Ivy went ahead in the top of the eighth when Bob Kehoe singled home Joe Toto from third. Kearney came right back to get its only two hits in the same inning to eke out its victory. Cooper was charged with the loss.

In the Trenton League, scheduled to wind up on the 24th, Ivy Inn won by default Thursday over Liedtka Fuel Oil which withdrew from the league. Though the win upped Ivy's record to 11-12, the team is still mired in second division, five games in back of fourth-place Lalor Amoco. Its chance of winning a playoff position before the season ends next week is very thin.

FOUR IN FINALS: These four Princeton players reached the final round in the Mercer County Junior Tennis Tournament last week. Left to right: Steven Kraft, runner-up in Boys-12-and-Under; Shawn Tully, winner in the Boys-14 division; Susan Valentine, runner-up in the Girls-12-and-Under event; and Laura Peterson, winner in the same group.

Every day, hundreds of Public Service linemen climb utility poles to help keep your electric service at its best. But many poles have become so covered with metal nails and staples that it has created a safety hazard. Linemen depend on their "spurs" cutting into the wooden pole to provide sure-footed climbing. But if there are nails and staples in the pole, there's a chance that a lineman's spurs will not dig into the wood. A serious accident can result.

"Please help our linemen to help you. Do not put signs on utility poles!"

Why Put A Brick Wall Inside A House?

ANSWER: JUST BECAUSE IT LOOKS PRETTY!

The PRINCETON RIDGE homes in Rocky Hill show many imaginative touches. Some are purely decorative: others are quite functional.

Drive out and see the models on Washington Street—they are all very different. Some people have told us that they are even "dramatic and exciting" as well.

Quite aside from the homes, the land is definitely beautiful—high, rolling, and well, do come out and see for yourself.

We spent a year making the inside of our new house nicer: e.g., fireplace; French doors to screeoed porch (on breezy side); professionally chosen match stick blinds, Irish lioen drapes, valances, and Belgian carpet in the 14 x 24 suaken living room and separate dining room. Center ball eatry to this 2 story Colooial with carpeted stair, large guest closet, and lavatory makes ideal traffic pattern. Kitcheo was enlarged with more cupboards: electric built-in oven, range, and dishwasher; plus stainless steel double sink with chopping block cover and single lever faucet. Off the kitchen: 12 x 18 panelled family room (away from formal rooms) with built-ia air-conditioning that cools kitchen too! Utility room with laundry; large garage with work bench; TV and FM aotennae with plugs, etc., etc. UPSTAIRS: 4 large bedrooms all with cross ventilation; two tiled baths; much closet and storage space. 36 inch exhaust fan in attic cools whole house in evening. House has aluminum storm-screeos.

We planoed next year to dress up the half-acre lot on this quiet street away from town traffic, but the work moved to Britain. Here is gracious living more reasonably priced 10 minutes from Princeton. With rugs and drapes: $29,900. Call SW 9-1194 early morning or late evening for appointment at any time.

NOT IN VIRGINIA

but all the charm of a plantation home in this beautiful old estate within commuting distance of New York

In an unspoiled countryside this 200 year old house with its frame wing in a setting of old boxwood and tall trees, high on a hill is a picture of Colonial America.

Thoroughly modern for convenience yet authentic as to period. It has a huge living room with big stone fireplace, panelled in old pine, a charming dining room with fireplace, big kitchen thoroughly modern, powder room, master bedroom with fireplace, beamed ceiling and bath, four family bedrooms with two baths. Also a beautiful spring-fed swimming pool in a natural setting.

Ordinarily three farms. There are two old farm houses on the property that have been modernized and their rent much more than pays the taxes on the entire property. Many outbuildings include guest cottage, four-car garage, horse barn or barn with stanchions for twenty cows, box stalls for calves, stone spring house, storage sheds for farm equipment. All furniture in perfect condition together with complete farm equipment are included.

Owner anxious to sell for family reasons has reduced the price so drastically that it is probably the best buy of its kind in the New York area and should be of interest to a speculator.
